

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

DAVE DUDLEY

The freshmen this year certainly are an inquisitive lot. One of them asked: "What is the difference between the North and South?" Another frosh, who was quite alert, spoke out of turn and replied: "If you call a man a liar in the North he sues you, but if you call the Southerner the same thing, he'll shoot you."

Mr. Ryan would like to know who rented the pool table the other day—both rents.

The Great Sophomore Disappearing Act.

Prof: "Who are you?"
Subject: "I'm Knott."

Why is it that since the Prom, "I Wanta Be In Carolina In The Morning," has become so popular?

Now that you have ordered an Annual, don't forget to pay for it.

Did you know that all day confinement in a dark room is good for sore eyes? Also an absence excuse?

A sky-blue roadster, as long as the forty-four hundred block of Charles St. Ave., stopped. A commanding voice rang out: "Come, son, ride home."

"Oh, mother please, allow me to walk."

That's one for the Thumb Throwers.

FLEDGLING FRESHMEN FLAUNT FORMIDABLE FORENSIC FOES

Loyola's fledgling debaters, the Frosh, of course, will soon go into action against formidable foes. Friday they will train their guns on the Sophomore contingent.

Friday of next week they will be exposed to the verbal broadsides of the Fordham University Freshmen.

In both encounters the Freshies will defend the negative side of the following question: Resolved:—"The United States should cease to protect with armed force American investments in foreign countries, except after a formal declaration of war."

JUNIORS COMMENDED ON BRILLIANT SUCCESS AND DIGNITY OF PROM

Miss Betty Eaton, of Notre Dame, Honor Guest of Evening; Chosen Prom's Queen

Favors Source of Delight to All; Affair Lauded in Interviews

As promised, the moon rose. The mercury hovered about an ideal level. Decorations stunned, even as they were supposed to stun. A huge success puts the orchestra down mildly. Favors elicited ohs! and ahs! of delight and seven hundred voices voiced a lone opinion, "a wonderful evening."

Yes, we're speaking of the 1928 Loyola Junior Prom.

Miss Betty Eaton, Notre Dame of Maryland student, as guest of Hugh A. Meade, Junior president and Prom chairman, was deservedly acclaimed "Queen of the Prom."

Miss Eaton was presented a bouquet of American Beauty Roses just before the promenade by the president of senior, T. Nathaniel Ferciot.

In the wee sma' hours of May the fifth the Prom had become a matter of history. Rather than chronicle a partisan account of this social achievement, several older persons, less likely to fall into the error of exaggeration, have been kind enough to grant the following interviews:

Mrs. R. Lee Slingluff, Sr., said: "The Junior Class and the students of Loyola may be justly proud of staging a most elaborate and attractive affair. The decorations were in exceptionally good taste and carried out the spirit of Evergreen."

Mr. A. J. Bourbon, prominent alumnus, voiced the following sentiments:

"It was a revelation to enter the 'Gym' at Evergreen and realize the transformation. The decorations, carried out with a taste, added dignity to the spacious hall and created a fine setting for the large crowd that graced the occasion. Evidently, the Junior Class worked and worked hard, and I wish to congratulate them on the high standard they set."

CLASS OF 1917 PLANNING A SERIES OF GET-TOGETHERS

Members of the class of '17, college, and '13, high school, are showing unusual interest in Alumni activities.

According to an announcement by the class secretary, William A. Sehlhorst, there is to be a class reunion at his home, 304 Suffolk road, Guilford, on Tuesday evening, May 29.

The purpose of the reunion-meeting is to plan similar monthly get-togethers for the future. Each member attending the reunion at Mr. Sehlhorst's home will be asked to entertain his former classmates on succeeding meeting dates, which will be decided upon.

The class of '17, college, was composed of 11 members. Several of the members are in other states at present, but have promised faithfully to be in Baltimore on the night of the first monthly meeting.

SENIOR BRINGS HONOR TO THE FIGHTIN' IRISH IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Wasilifsky Is Proclaimed State Oratorical Champ Over Three Opponents

To Take Part in Semi-finals at Bucknell in the Near Future

Three weeks ago Loyola's oratorical hopes, in the person of Adolf M. Wasilifsky, senior, journeyed to Westminster. Possibility developed into reality as the orator was proclaimed "Oratorical Champion of the State of Maryland."

Wasilifsky gained the right to represent Loyola in this contest when he won the Lee Gold Medal for Oratory a month before. The good showing he made at Evergreen was relegated to the background by the splendid appearance he made at Westminster.

For the second time, he was the first speaker of the evening; for the second time, he was the best speaker of the evening.

From the time he arose to speak, until the time his closing words rang out, not a disturbing sound was heard throughout the auditorium. His full, ponderous voice filled the spacious hall; his clear, distinct logic controlled the minds of his audience. His eloquence absorbed the attention of listeners to a degree beyond explanation.

Indeed, the ovation he received at the close of his speech was an indication of the impression he made upon the audience.

The college representatives spoke in the following order: Loyola, "The Constitution"; Maryland, "Washington and the Constitution"; Johns Hopkins, "Marshall and the Constitution," and lastly, Western Maryland, "The Constitution."

The lack of cooperation on the part of Loyola's student body was quite noticeable. Only three Loyola men were there to cheer our representative on to victory. They were most ably assisted by two members of the faculty, Father Whalen and Mr. Berger, S. J.

The next contest in which Wasilifsky will participate is to be held

TRUE STORY OF HECUBA THE LAUNDRESS

(Enter Hecuba, weeping.)

Hecuba: "Alas! Alas! Alas! Alas! Alas! Alas! etc."

(Enter Talthybius, the herald.)

Talthybius: "Hail, Madame Hecuba, the deed is done and all is quiet along the Hellespont."

Hecuba (aside):

"Can't I even enjoy cry alone? Oh! dear. (To Talthybius.) Who are you? What do you want?"

Talthybius (with dignity):

"I, madame, am Talthybius, the best A. D. T. in Greece. Weddings, executions, births, funerals, auctions, etc., announced at reasonable rates. Guaranteed satisfactory and with perfectly proper publicity. I am bonded by the city of Athens and absolutely can assure you that—"

(Voice from the wings.)

Voice:

"Forget it, Tal, this is no advertising agency! Get back to your part. You're delaying the show!"

Talthybius:

"All right, Mr. Manager, my error, but even the best actors and authors get off on tangents. Look at De Wolfe Horner, Thomas de Quincey, Big Bill Thompson, et al."

Voice (sternly):

"I said, cut it short!"

Talthybius:

"All right, all right, don't be nasty. (To Hecuba) Let's see, Hec, where were we? Oh! yes. Polyxena's been executed and Agamemnon says you aren't to weep. It's bad for the eyes. To avoid weeping use one ounce of borax powder with two drams—"

Voice:

"Talthybius!!!!!"

Talthybius:

"Oh! All right! Well, anyhow Hecuba, you still have one son, Polydorus, left. Just think, only

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION STAGES HUGE RALLY

The Alumni Association has gained new impetus. To put it in the words of one of the speakers "the biggest crowd since the late war" attended last Thursday's meeting in the Science Building.

They were not passive onlookers; either. Each man who occupied a chair in the assembly room that night was heart and soul for a bigger and better Alumni Association. Each and every speaker that night promised them a bigger and better Alumni Association and promised them, with their co-operation, that bigger and better Alumni Association was to become a reality within the next few months.

Seek Interest

The only condition required for the production of this bigger and better organization was just an active interest in the matters of the association. No financial support was asked, except the payment of nominal dues.

Loyola's Alumni Association in the past has not lacked financial support. It lacked, in some instances, that much heard and talked of support, moral support.

Thursday evening's meeting was an indication that that necessary moral support will not be lacking in the future. Every man who attended the meeting by his mere presence pledged his support and it is not the part of a true Loyola man to back down on his word. The word of a Loyola man is his bond.

The meeting was opened with a few remarks from the moderator, the Rev. J. I. Ziegler, S. J., who has held the office of advisor and counsellor to the organization for a number of years.

Father Ziegler Talks

Father Ziegler outlined the purpose of the organization and added complimentary remarks on the attendance. He said:

"No organization having serious purposes, such as this gathering has, and engaged in meritorious undertakings, will attract and hold the attention of those whose only interest is entertainment and personal advantage. Such are the "joiners," who may be compared to the seed that fell upon stony ground, where there was not much earth wherein to take root and soon withered away. But the great body of our members, while enjoying the social benefits and good fellowship which flow from friendships formed, have a deeper interest."

"Ike" George There

Father Ziegler was followed by none other than the ever loyal Isaac ("Ike") George. Mr. George gave a brief summary of the minutes of the annual meeting of the National Catholic Alumni Federation in New York, to which he was a delegate from Loyola.

Every section of the United States was represented, Mr. George said. The purpose of the organization, as outlined by its constitution, according to the speaker, is to promote the growth and strength of individual alumni associations in Catholic Colleges in America.

To this end it was found necessary to employ a paid executive secretary. A $50,000 endowment fund was subscribed immediately by two members of the association.

The duties of this secretary, according to Mr. George, will be to study alumni organization, its methods and the best means of getting together a representative alumni body, both in numbers and quality. This secretary will then travel to individual colleges and aid in the reorganization or organization of alumni associations in colleges which are members of the National Catholic Alumni Federation.

Twofold Purpose

The National Alumni Federation has a twofold purpose, Mr. George explained. The first, an unselfish purpose, is the coordination of the brain power of Catholic college men in the United States. The wisdom of the agency is patent. The second purpose, which might be catalogued more or less selfish, is to help the alumni organizations in Catholic colleges to help themselves.

Every delegate to the meeting, which was attended by fifty men, expressed the same difficulty in putting the condition of his particular organization before the delegation. All were wondering how to get the old crowd together and keep them together.

The Executive Committee and the Junior Class extend their most sincere thanks to members of the faculty, the student body and the friends of Loyola, whose wonderful co-operation made the Junior Prom such an unprecedented success.

The meeting was then addressed by Charles J. Bouchet, '97, the speaker who designated the crowd as the largest in attendance since "our late misfortune, the war." Mr. Bouchet is chairman of the membership committee.

Jubilee Plans

The Rev. Henri J. Wiesel, S. J., acting president of Loyola, closed the meeting by revealing the plans for the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of the foundation of Loyola next month.

He also read a detailed report of the specifications for the new Library Building, as submitted for approval by the architect. Contrary to expectation, he explained, the new structure will not be completed and ready for occupancy by next September. It probably will be Christmas-time before the books and classrooms are housed in the building.

The cornerstone of the Library will be laid by Archbishop Curley on the evening of graduation exercises, June 11.

Graduation Exercises

Jubilee ceremonies will start on the morning of June 10, with a solemn pontifical High Mass at St. Ignatius' Church. Bishop McNamara, a Loyola alumnus, will be celebrant. Archbishop Curley will be present. The sermon will be preached by an alumnus and the officers of the mass will be members of the alumni.

Graduation exercises, setting a precedent, will be held in the college gymnasium on the evening of June 11. Bishop McNamara will deliver the graduation address.

Father Wiesel concluded his address by exhorting the members of the alumni to take an active interest in the college activities, curricular and extra-curricular. By speaking well of Loyola to young men of college age and referring them to members of the faculty, or bringing them out to Evergreen and getting them acquainted, is one of the best services they can render in showing their love for their Alma Mater.

A dance, to be given by the class of '27 in honor of the graduates of this year, in the gymnasium on Friday, June 8, was announced by one of the members of the class of '27, Mr. Jerry Ireton.

LOYOLA ALUMNUS FATALLY INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the passing of one of our esteemed alumni members, Charles V. Milholland, who was fatally injured by an automobile at Charles and Twenty-ninth streets.

Born in Baltimore, Mr. Milholland was a son of the late Arthur V. Milholland, a member of the Baltimore Bar, and Margaret Riley Milholland. He received his A. B. in 1905. After a tour of Europe he took up civil engineering in the Texas oil fields and on irrigation projects. Entering the service of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad he was engaged in railroad construc-

400 Delegates Attend Alumni Meet in N. Y. Father Ziegler Represents Loyola at Convention in Waldorf-Astoria; Isaac S. George Delegate

The third convention of the National Catholic Alumni Federation met in New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. It extended from April 20th to 22nd. Loyola College, a member of the Federation, was represented by Fr. J. I. Ziegler, S. J., Moderator of Loyola's Alumni Association, Isaac S. George, as Delegate, and Robert C. Norman, who resides in New York, as Alternate Delegate.

There were Delegates from forty-six Catholic Alumni Associations, which represented Catholic Colleges from every section of the country, including Gonzaga College, Spokane, Wash., and St. Mary's College, Oakland, Cal. Practically all Eastern and Mid-Western States were represented by at least one Delegation. It was a very enthusiastic and representative convention.

On the opening day there was a registration of Delegates followed by a reception and addresses. The second day was given over to business sessions, committee meetings and discussions by men of non-Catholic institutions. Later the election of officers and a luncheon was held. Sunday morning a solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's Cathedral. In the evening the convention ended with a banquet, which over four hundred members attended. All available seats in the huge ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria were taken. Theodore B. McManus, of Detroit, at the conclusion of an interesting and entertaining speech, gave $25,000 as an endowment fund. Another gentleman, whose name was not disclosed, donated a like sum.

and the success they achieved."

And here are the impressions of Mr. George Clautice:

"The Chairman and the committee are to be congratulated on the arrangement and the decorations. The latter made a fitting background for the happy young men and their attractive partners."

The following epistle was received by the Junior president from the president of Senior.

tion work at the time of his death.

He was a member of the American Association of Civil Engineering.

Mr. Milholland's father was one of the founders of the Alumni Association of Loyola College, being its first vice-president and second president. His brother, Francis X. Milholland, was president of the association when it gave Loyola the gymnasium.

His son, Arthur V. Milholland, is a student at Loyola High School. Mr. Milholland is also survived by his widow, who was a Miss Mae Kinnamon.

BASEBALL

LOYOLA TAKES WASHINGTON OVER THE HURDLES 7-5

Washington College traveled to Baltimore to meet Loyola Saturday, May 5, where they came out on the short end of a 7-to-5 tally.

Schap, twirling a fast game for the Greyhounds, fanned six of the Washingtonians. He kept the runners close to the sacks at all times. Tanton led the Loyola attack with three singles in as many times at bat.

Both Schap and Griffin, the opposing hurler, were touched often for hits, with ten and eleven respectively off their deliveries. Washington College drew first blood.

In the first inning Dean led off with a single to left field. Dobson sacrificed and on an overthrow Dean took third. Geraitis poled a long fly to center, scoring Dean. The next batter swung at three fast ones.

Loyola's tossers came right back at the Washington contingent. Kane, first up, took his base on high and wide ones. Enright sacrificed. Tanton flied out to right, Kane scoring on a bad throw. Healey ended the inning by flying out to center.

Evergreen scored two more in the second. Washington drew within one run in the third and then got two to take the lead in the fifth. The Greyhounds came back with a pair of tallies and swept ahead again.

In the seventh Loyola's bat wielders annexed two more runs and a rally of the Washingtonians in the ninth gained them only one marker.

LOYOLA WINS MOUND DUEL FROM BLUE RIDGE NINE

Several days before that historical event, the Junior Prom, the Greyhounds journeyed to New Windsor to take the measure of Blue Ridge College to the tune of 3 to 1.

Both Child and Frale, the Blue Ridge air-burner, pitched excellent ball. Harry allowed but two hits and struck twelve men out. Frale had the Loyolaites swinging at his fast ones and sent thirteen back to the bench. He was nicked for four hits.

Blue Ridge hopped into the lead in the third period. With two down, Frale singled through the infield. Bromley was hit by a pitched ball. Lichler smacked a double to center, scoring Frale. Bromley halted the session by being caught attempting to steal home.

Not to be outsmarted, the Greyhounds went right back at the Blue Ridge boys in the fourth. One away, Tanton belted a triple to right. Ed Healy was hit by a pitched ball, Monahan struck out. Healy stole second. Tanton dashed for home when the Blue Ridge catcher tried to get the pill down to second to halt Healy. Child reached first on an error. Bunn fanned.

While Child was mowing the Blue Ridge batters down in order, his mates got another start in the seventh. Childress, first man up, was safe on an error. Utz Twardowicz doubled to center, scoring Childress. Kane sacrificed Utz to third. Enright took a third swing without connecting. Tanton safe on an error and Monahan doubled over to second, scoring Utz and putting the game on ice.

conscience tells me that these qualities are lacking in me. I am also informed by that bothersome faculty that I would feel that I had slighted the occasion, that my description was the emptiest attempted by the commentators.

Hence, (again) I shall resort to an effeminate description of the Prom of '29.

Marvelous Prom; superb decorations; exquisite music; gorgeous favors; beautiful ladies; handsome gentlemen; marvelous evening, and a glorious occasion.

T. N. Ferciot.

P. S. Had I attempted a description, my words would have been shamed by the occasion itself. Perhaps I have not used my allotted quota of adjectives in this epistle. But add to what I have penned—gracious, grandiloquent, supreme, paramount, glittering, and the superlative of any other appropriate adjective, and you have the Junior Promenade of '29. T. N. F.

But what did I intend to say? Somehow my declamation has befuddled my purpose. I can't quite decide whether I had purposed to comment on the Junior Promenade or the Embassy Ball.

However, being a man of decision, and one who can revert to the correct topic, or should I say the most worthy topic, instantaneously, I wish to say that the Junior Promenade, from my personal viewpoint, was a huge success.

Had I the deft touch of a Michael Angelo, or the crafty wordiness of a Cicero, or even the artistry of a Homer, I might attempt a description of the Promenade. But my

Prominent Speakers Address Students

Several extra-curricular lectures were added to the course in political economy through the efforts of Rev. John G. Hacker S. J., professor, during the past few weeks. Others, which are being arranged, will be announced at a later date.

The first of these lectures, given by Mr. George Clautice, Executive Secretary of the Association of Commerce of Baltimore, was both interesting and instructive. He gave a very clear and concise explanation of the causes that bring about fluctuations which occur in modern business cycles.

The lecture by Mr. M. F. Reese, Cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank of Baltimore, was given over to an enlightening discussion on the Federal Reserve Banking System.

Father Hacker is to be complimented for his selection of such accomplished economists and also for affording an insight into the practical side of this subject.

Last Friday, the Junior-Senior Evidence Class, through the efforts of Rev. John A. Risacher were privileged to hear a discourse on the Matrimonial Courts of Rome, by the Rev. Frank McQuade S. J., professor of Canon Law at Woodstock.

"Crime" Prize Debate Subject at High School

The Prize Debate held annually by the Loyola College Literary Society will be held on Monday, May 28, in the auditorium of the High School at 8 P. M.

The question to be discussed is one of immediate local interest and reads, Resolved: "That the State of Maryland should enact a law similar to the Baumes Law of New York, tending towards a solution of the present day crime problem."

The affirmative side of the question will be upheld by Messrs. Philip T. Sybert '29, and John D. Kohlhepp '31, the negative angle by Messrs. Hugh Allen Meade '29, and Edward A. Doehler '30.

The chairman of the debate will be T. Nathaniel Ferciot '28. Judges, distinguished for their knowledge of the subject, will be Mr. James M. Hepbron, chairman of the Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission; Senator William Curran, noted criminal lawyer; and Honorable Herbert R. O'Connor '12, States Attorney for Baltimore.

Rev. Joseph J. Ayd, dean of Loyola College and an authority on criminology, is the chancellor of the society.

And a white moon beams."

(Editor's note: If you desire an encore, write out "The Old Grey Mare" and mail in a stamped, well-addressed envelope.)

(Re-enter handmaid with covered corpse of Polydorus under her arm, as all realize, except Hecuba, who is not very bright.)

Handmaid:

"What do you think I got in this hand, Hecuba?"

CONGRATULATIONS FROM FRESHMEN

The Freshmen take this opportunity to congratulate the Junior Class on the gala event of Loyola's social season, their Promenade. The Freshmen and their friends express their appreciation of the "best dance they ever attended."

SENIOR BRINGS HONOR TO FIGHTIN' IRISH

soon at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa. Now, we all want Loyola to win. So let's do our best to get there this time and cheer our man on to another victory. Remember—we want a Loyola representative in the FINALS to be held in California on June 21.
